

General Service Lamps Third Party Certification

July 28, 2010

The following was issued by Natural Resources Canada and circulated by the Canadian Society of Customs Brokers.

This notice applies to the importation and inter-provincial transport of General Service Lamps.

Third Party Certification for General Service Lamps

Natural Resources Canada (NRCan) is following up on its stated intent to address compliance verification requirements for general service lamps before the 2012 minimum energy performance standards (MEPS) come into effect. They are proposing that general service lamps be third party energy efficiency verified when they become subject to their respective 2012 MEPS.

More information is available on NRCan's bulletin, available at:

http://cscb.ca/listinfo/Lamp_labelling_July-2012.pdf