Validation of Destination Address for Imports of Fresh Fruit & Vegetables; Processed Products; Dairy & Honey

January 21, 2010

The following is replicated from a broadcast e-mail from the Canadian Food Inspection Agency and distributed by the Canadian Society of Customs Brokers.

It is essential that complete and accurate destination information is included in the documentation provided in conjunction with imports of these products.

Validation of Destination Address for Imports

Please be informed as of February 1, 2010, when using the Electronic Data Interchange, EDI, the information entered under Destination, for the Fresh Fruit & Vegetable, Processed Products, Dairy & Honey Programs will be automatically validated and admission will be based on a complete and correct address. The Canadian destination of a shipment is currently a requirement in regulation for these programs and the address will be assessed against the postal code.

Errors or incomplete submissions will result in the transaction being rejected until satisfactory information has been received. If the transaction is still in a rejected status when the product arrives at the border, it will not be permitted entry into Canada.

Should you have any questions on the above requirements, please contact John Wood, A/Chief, Imports, Agrifood Division at john.wood@inspection.gc.ca or 204-984-6186.
